Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Friday 18 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain in southeast clearing tonight, fine for many areas Saturday.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain in southern and eastern England, some heavy, possibly thundery, clears this evening but leaving a lot of cloud. Further north and west, possibly an isolated shower, but most parts fairly chilly with clear spells and the odd mist patch.

Saturday:
Cloud breaking slowly across southeastern areas leaving some sunshine for much of the UK. The odd shower across Scotland, while thickening cloud brings possible showery outbreaks across southern England later.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Unsettled across the south with spells of rain, locally heavy and thundery, mainly for England. Less unsettled for Scotland and NI. Temperature cool to near normal.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.